Pianos all around the world

Just a few months ago we sold and delivered two beautifully restored grand pianos to Japan. They were transported by plane in special boxes with shock indicators and arrived in perfect condition as was all the necessary paperwork.

Within Europe we have a long-term relationship with a transport company specializing in piano-transport. Therefore we are able to offer amazing shipping prizes for our clients.

So why not buying an excellent piano in Vienna - the city of music and the city of pianos?

A piano's story

Hello, my name is Blüthner, I'm an upright piano of 112 cm and my surface is made of shiny mahogany. Nice to meet you!

I was built in 1978 in one of Europe's oldest and most famous piano factories in Leipzig, Germany. Often I'm compared with a Mercedes Benz, but I've got no idea why: I don't need fuel and I definitely don't honk! My first owner was very much into playing classical music. To be able to afford me, he lived on a budget for a long time and couldn't await our first date.

Back in the 70's Blüthner had a nice and quite progressive marketing idea: New customers were invited to visit the factory to welcome their new piano. There we finally met for the very first time, both of us very excited, and it was love at first tone! After many years in perfect harmony we were separated by fate - what a tearful goodbye. I was very afraid of now being forgotten in a damp basement or ending up in a music school (there are rumors abroad...).

Fortunately I was bought by an expert, carefully transported and suddenly I found myself in Vienna! There is even a workshop, where I had a complete physical examination and rejuvenation. Now, I'm in perfect shape again waiting for the next challenge. Maybe there will be children, too?

Most of our pianos can tell amazing stories. What story will your piano tell?
